Johnson's Message in Congress

By overland mail we have journals which contain a full report of the scene in Congress on the reception of the President's message. From the report of the House proceedings we select the following

Mr Washburne of Illinois having made a motion that the message be printed said the recommendations of the President relative to the public debt am[illegible] plain undisguised repudiation and entered his protest against them denouncing them as a disgrace to the country and to the Chief Magistrate

Mr Washburne yielded to Mr Broomall, who desired to offer a resolution He was interrupted by Mr W[illegible]d who made a point of order that Mr Washburne had been using unparliamentary language

The Speaker ruled that this being a country of free speech the persons elected to represent the people have a right to criticise their public officers provided it be in language not indecorous or offensive a right exercised in the President's message in referring to [illegible] of Cong[illegible]

At Mr Schenck's desire, the paragraph commencing "our national credit should be [illegible] observed" and ending "rigid compliance with the letter of the bond," was [illegible]

Mr Broomall then read his resolution, which recites the paragraph above referred to and says

WHEREAS, Such a settlement if permitted to go to the world without immediate protest, might be understood to be the sentiment of the people of the United States and of their Representatives in Congress therefore

Resolved That all forms and degrees of repudiation of the national indebtedness are odious to the American people and that under no circumstances will their Representatives consent to offer the public creditor as full compensation a less amount of money than that which the government contracted to pay him

Mr Schenck said I look upon part of the message as the most gross, shameless infamous proposition to repudiate the debt of the country that I have ever yet known to be put forward from any quarter except it may be possibly in the columns of the paper of Brick Pomeroy who I believe has spread before the public, in full this morning this message in advance of the other papers [laughter] showing possibly, a kindred feeling on this point There is another part of the message to which I wish to attract attention before any vote is taken On the twenty-fifth page will be found a paragraph reflecting on the action of Congress in terms similar to those used by the Legislature of Oregon It is only necessary for me to recall the attention of the House to the fact that yesterday, when such language came from that source, we stigmatized it as [illegible], indecorous and slanderous I do not know any [illegible] which the President of the United States has to speak thus of public legislation, which may not as well be accorded to the Legislature of Oregon, and I therefore class them together in that reprobation which Congress has already passed on one of them Now I trust that there will be no printing of the message Let it take its chances in the public prints I trust it will be simply laid on the table as not fit to be referred to the Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union, or to any committee of the House

Mr Farnsworth That is right.

Mr Schenck I trust also that no [illegible] will be deterred from voting against referring it to the Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union on the supposition that it is necessary in order to give jurisdiction to the several parts that should be referred to those committees. There is nothing in the message of which the standing committees of the House may not obtain jurisdiction by the ordinary process of reference of bills petitions and resolutions There is no necessity of referring it to the Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union for the usual purpose of its distribution to the standing committees [illegible] is no need of its being printed. It will go broadcast to the country as all Presidents' messages do, for what it is worth I desire that it may simply be laid on the table and I hope my friend from Illinois concurring with me, will permit me to substitute the motion for his

Mr Washburne concurred with Mr Schenck but said it was necessary that the message be printed in order for it to go among the official documents of the country He modified his motion so as to lay the message on the table and have it printed

Mr Scofield suggested whether the gentlemen would not be satisfied to have it sent to the Butter shops?

Mr Higby agreed with the gentleman as to the character of the message, but it seemed to him that the House was making too much of one who is effectually dead The last election settled that question Let the message go to the people and let them see what we have had to contend against for the last three years. It will fully confirm all Congress has said of him

The question being on the motion to lay on the table and print, Mr Ross suggested an amendment to print 100 000 copies

The Speaker ruled the amendment not in order The message was laid on the table and ordered printed Yeas, 128 nays, 38

Poor Wel[illegible]

[From the Missouri Democrat.]

And now thirty days after the election we have a disclosure of the origin progress and dismal failure of the abortive effort in the Democratic camp If a certain dispatch from Marble of the World, had reached Wash McLean of the Enquirer we are assured the thing would have been very much better! Distinguished Democrats had consulted McLean had Blair by the button-hole at Cincinnati while Marble had fast hold of Seymour The high contracting parties were ready to operate Newspaper men managed the affair as they do every great undertaking Between Marble and McLean there was a full understanding only there was needed notice of the time of commencing operations Marble telegraphed [illegible] the article will appear in to-morrow's World meanwhile there is no time to lose Push it fast and hot And a stupid boy got the dispatch into his pocket when loafing about Cincinnati with it two days and then discovering his blunder destroyed it to prevent a row And poor McLean was in a terrible state of anxiety while Marble was blazing away in the World at a great rate The delay was fatal The delicate negotiation ended in a fizzle in the continued candidature of Seymour and in the overwhelming defeat of the party all because a boy did not come to time with his dispatch So Democrats say at least!

It is of no consequence in the classic phrase of Mr Toots Had Chase been named instead of Seymour the collapse would have been quite as complete and disgraceful Neither McLean Marble nor all the Democratic editors in the country could have made a President after the Maine election The game was ended and they were stupid not to know it No amount of recrimination will help the matter but it is interesting to know that Mr Chase came so near being the great defeated!

This is the way Mr Greely throws cold water on those office seekers who have been anticipating the aid of his influence with General Grant The gentleman who writes us for a letter to General Grant recommending him for a consulship will have to excuse us General Grant will in due time choose a secretary of State whose duty it will be to see that the needed consulates are properly filled but if General Grant allows himself to be troubled with applications for office he is not nearly so wise a man as we believe him and not likely to [illegible] as the public good requires At all events he will never read any office seeking letters from us

Nasby's logic is irresistible Attributing all the calamities of the Democracy to their insane attempt to diffuse the campaign over a large number of issues he exclaims with a true and keen appreciation of his party's real [illegible] Let us fall back on the nigger that is our best and only hold As that [illegible] party lost all by letting go the nigger in part they now following the sage advice of the Postmaster of the Confederate X Roads return to Sambo as their last refuge

The Changing Seat of Empire

Present[illegible] the National House of Representatives [illegible] apportionment is made will have the same number of members [illegible] two hundred and forty [illegible] increase in population [illegible] States [illegible] relatively [illegible] distribution [illegible] differently from the present arrangement. The vigorous expanding States of the West, like Illinois, Indiana, Mi[illegible] will come in for a large increase in proportion of the total number of Representatives. The Southern States will probably hold their own. The present basis of representation in the late slave States includes three fifths of the negroes, but the counting of the other two-fifths will not be likely to enable those States to more than retain their present number of members when the basis of representation is made larger for the whole country. The Eastern States will certainly lose a considerable number of members and the Middle States may also lose some. Kentucky and Maryland will inevitably lose unless their blacks are allowed to vote, for the Fourteenth Amendment provides that if any class is disfranchised in any State, the representation of such State shall be reduced proportionately. Kentucky now has a voting population of 155,000 and nine members of Congress. Michigan has a voting population of 222,000, and only six members. Iowa has nearly three times as many voters as Maryland, and only one more member of Congress. Almost every State in the Upper Mississippi valley will increase its strength in Congress after the next census. The unprecedented increase in the vote of those States shows that the seat of empire is rapidly changing to that geographical center of the Republic.

B[illegible] Advice.—The New York World having overcome the first crushing disappointment of defeat, is striving as the San Francisco Times observes, to infuse courage and hope into the despondent ranks of the Democratic party. The World has learned one lesson [illegible] the late campaign and that is, that so long as its party organs are edited by intemperate factionists so long will it retain the back seat it earned so fully during the past struggle. It advises its subordinates that the time for bluster and slander, and vituperation, and calumny is past. That the day has gone by when anything could be gained by filling the columns of Democratic journals with bitter denunciations of "Lincoln hirelings," "Mongrel Abolitionists," "Military satraps," "bloated bondholders" etc. That the day has come when the only hope of the party lies in burying Secession forty fathoms deep, in accepting the issue of the war, and in allaying or concealing every [illegible] of bitterness, and every expression of hostility to the powers that be.

An Amiable Official.—The head of the Indian Bureau at Washington is an amiable old [illegible] of doubtful sex, who can come out singing on the "wrongs of the noble red man." He has a peculiar fondness for the sweet simplicity of [illegible] society as exhibited among the native tribes of America and is unable to see how these children of nature can be anything else than innocent, harmless, guileless creatures. He speaks of every chastisement given the Indians by the troops as "another slaughter of the innocents," and represents the soldiers who are the defenders of the frontier, the guards of our national progress and the protection of advancing civilization, as bloody butchers who are wreaking vengeance on a harmless and helpless race. The transfer of the Bureau to the War Department, which will probably be soon effected, will drive out this prosing sentimentalism, and while the Indians will not be dealt with unjustly they will be taught that punishment will surely follow the perpetration of outrages.

Exclusion from Citizenship.—We observe that [illegible] of the Eastern journals commend the proposition made by Senator Williams to exclude the Asiatic races from American citizenship, at least for a number of years until the country has had further experience with them. It is worthy of remark that the Chinese do not want to become American citizens. They have no desire to possess the right of suffrage. All they want is the liberty to work in peace and security, and enjoy the fruits of their labor. They don't care a pin for the vehement opposition which the Democracy are making to "Chinese suffrage." They are quite oblivious to the anxiety of windy demagogues on this subject. John don't know how much interest the Democratic politician is taking in him and wouldn't care for it if he did know. We anticipate little opposition to Senator Williams' proposition.

"No Legal President after March 4th 1869."—The Copperhead papers are amusing themselves by publishing articles under such captions as the above. It degrades common sense to think that they are in earnest, as they evidently appear to be. To such an extent is the judgment warped by strong partisan bias. In one of the Democratic papers of this State we recently saw an array of figures which were twisted, turned and combined into all sorts of absurd shapes, with a design to show that Grant was elected by a minority of the votes of the country. In another, we saw an extract from the Old Guard appealing to Democrats to resist the election of Grant and not allow him to enter upon his duties as President of the United States. It really appears as if these people, when they come to talk of political matters lose every atom of sense they ever possessed.

The Last Disgrace.—The Philadelphia Press talks in this way about Johnson's last official diatribe: "For the last time the man [illegible] character whom we have got in the White House sees his opportunity to dance with all his paint and feathers along the war path and [illegible] proper to enjoy this his favorite and peculiar diversion. It hardly becomes us to complain. Of our own free will for temporizing purposes to conciliate an uneducated and semi-civilized section we deliberately placed a backwoods politician in the seat of Adams and Hamilton. [illegible] in silence our humiliation and be thankful that for the last time Andrew Johnson in his own eloquent language puts his foot down."

Democratic Advice.—Among the bushels of advisory letters which General Grant has received from Democrats, decidedly the best is that which tells him that his true policy is to appoint Jeff Davis Secretary of War as a measure of conciliation. The Democracy are quite moderate in their demands but there is reason to fear they will not secure a representative in the Cabinet, however much the appointment of Davis might "conciliate" them.

Disposition of Public Patronage

In the following, which we copy from a late article in the Albany (N. Y.) Journal there is so much good practical sense that we commend it to the attention of our readers. The question discussed is one which possesses an interest at this time and the Journal presents it in so sensible a manner that we feel justified in giving lengthy extracts from its article. It is arguing the case against the New York Times which advises that in the dispensation of official patronage the political character of appointees shall not be considered. The Journal says:

Probably not even the New York Times with all its ostentatious generosity to political opponents will deem it a matter of no consequence what may be the partisan character and [illegible] of the President. It would even admit, no doubt, as a quasi Republican newspaper, that a majority in Congress composed of straight-out Republican members is more to be desired than a predominance of the Democratic element. How then can it assume that it makes no difference what class of subordinates carry out the policy of the Executive or whether the administration and enforcement of laws made by a Republican Congress is entrusted to Republicans or not?

With all deference for the superior wisdom and sagacity of the Times we believe the people will not agree with it that the maxim "to the victors belong the spoils" has become obsolete. On the contrary it is now as it has ever been a sound statement of political philosophy. Would it be a sensible thing for a Republican President, elected to defend and enforce Republican ideas, and indebted to the Republican Party for his high elevation, to go to the ranks of those who opposed his election, who repudiate his theories, who resisted the enactment and enforcement of laws which he deems vital to the national welfare, in quest of persons to fill the subordinate places under his Administration?

By our system of conducting general elections vast expenditures are incurred and great labors performed during every campaign. Meetings are to be held, speakers procured, public halls hired, bands of music employed, uniforms and decorations purchased, accurate canvasses of the voters made—everything done to stimulate enthusiasm to secure interest; in a word, to compass success. It is putting a low estimate upon human nature to say that those who do the work and spend the money—much as they may desire the success of principle—look beyond this to a possible reward in the event of victory? And have they not a right so to do? Can the integrity and strength of a political organization be maintained, can anything like zeal be imparted to the efforts of its supporters, if it shall come to be understood that in the dispensation of patronage fidelity and service are to count for nothing—that the man who fought in hostile ranks, and labored for the success of opposing politics stands equal chance of recognition and reward with him who marched among the loyal hosts and gave his best energies to promote their cause?

In the late Presidential canvass, the issues joined between the parties were distinct and unmistakable. The Republicans fought for a full and unbroken maintenance of the nation's faith with its creditors, and the payment of the public debt according to the letter and spirit of the contract made when it was created; the Democrats for a forfeiture of our pledges, and unwholesome and ruinous expansion of the currency, and eventual repudiation and dishonor. The Republicans upheld the reconstruction laws of Congress as wise and just, and defended the loyal Government which had been formed under them at the South; the Democrats denounced those laws as unconstitutional, revolutionary and void, and threatened to set aside the Governments in question, and restore traitors to power. The Republicans declared for universal liberty and impartial suffrage under the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution; the Democrats denied that this amendment had been perfected, refused to recognize the citizenship of the black, and justified white rebels in every form of persecution and outrage, directed against those whom the Government had taken under its protection. This is a difference wide and broad. It involved questions whose settlement must have an immeasurable influence upon the future destinies of the country. It was the war of rebellion in a new form—the contest having been transferred from the martial field to the ballot-box. Had the Democratic party triumphed in electing a President and a majority of Congress, we should to-day see the lurid flames of civil war rekindled at the South, instead of peaceful submission by the whites to their situation, the threats of violent resistance would be carried into effect. Our public credit would be destroyed, our nation's industries visited with ruin and the land darkened by general crimes where have been only sporadic outrages.

If this statement be true—and none who supported the Chicago nominations will deny it—what follows? Plainly, the duty of patriotism was no less distinctly marked in this conflict of ideas than during the collision of arms. Had the ticket nominated at New York been elected, we believe that the most fearful evils would have resulted. Certainly, then, those who directed their efforts to that end, and who did their utmost to prevent the choice of General Grant, are entitled to no consideration at the hands of the victors. The official patronage of the country must be distributed somewhere. Is it not the extreme of folly to argue that in this case it should be given to those who have opposed with all their might the policy of the Government, which it is thus proposed shall employ them as its agents? Aside from the duty of a party when in power to reward those who have been its faithful followers and defenders, must it not be apparent at a glance that such a course would touch the acme of unwisdom, and amount to virtual suicide? As well have asked General Grant, after the battle of the Wilderness, to summon Lee and his subordinates in counsel and consult with them upon the policy of the campaign, as to argue that now, having been elected President in spite of the Copperhead Democracy, he shall go speering about among Copperhead Democrats, to find those who will help him administer the Government!

The necessities of political organization demand that there shall be men in every locality particularly interested in party work. Who so likely to have the means, the ability, the disposition to carry this on, as those who hold offices at the gift of party? The Postmaster, the Revenue Collector, Mail Agent, and all the various officers distributed through the country are apostles of Party, doing most to maintain its discipline and promote the objects it has in view. Nobody is so blind as not to have seen what a powerful influence is thus exerted. If the New York Times wants an illustration bearing upon the argument, it may be found in the means by which President Johnson defeated the election of Governor Hawley of Connecticut, through the dispensation of Federal patronage there, in such manner as to strengthen the Democracy.

We believe the principles of the Republican Party are right. We believe that their assertion in Government is essential to the integrity and welfare of the Union. Holding this view, we insist that whatever advances these principles—whatever makes their supporters more numerous or more zealous—it is the duty of those in authority to do. So long as capable, intelligent Republicans can be found to hold offices under a Republican Administration, we should regard it a manifest injustice and glaring crime to bestow them upon Democrats. During three years past, we have enjoyed experience enough in the way of having laws administered by those who were opposed to their spirit and designs. Perhaps the New York Times, which was suspiciously identified with the Philadelphia movement to bury the Republican Party, may see that a strict application of the views we have suggested would operate to the injury of its friends now in office under Johnson. But the Republicans who elected Grant are hoping that with his assumption of office there will be a thorough weeding out of the semi-Copperheads from public offices. We do not believe he will disappoint this expectation.

Bowles's Arrest.—It turns out that Samuel Bowles of the Springfield (Mass.) Republican was arrested at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York City. All efforts for his release were futile, and he was kept at the Ludlow street jail all night. Many prominent gentlemen offered security, but bail was refused and nobody was allowed to see him after he was locked up. It was the evident intention of Fiske in having the arrest made late at night to subject Mr. Bowles to the mortification of a night in prison.

It is asserted as an explanation of Reverdy Johnson's singular course in England that he is acting under private instructions given by the President, with whom he corresponds regardless of Mr. Seward. The report is that under the impression that the Democrats were going to carry the country the President instructed our Minister to pay his court to the Tories and shun the Liberals—in a word to meet the Confederate sympathisers as good fellows, all of which, it must be confessed, Mr. Reverdy Johnson has scrupulously observed.

An Extra Session

The Jacksonville Sentinel in a recent article discusses the proposition for an extra session of the Legislature in a manner which so completely accords with our own views that we give the article entire:

In an article on the condition of the State Finances the Unionist of the 18th inst. demands an extra session of the Legislature and remarks that nine-tenths of the Republican party in this State are in favor of it. We believe the Unionist much mistaken and that no respectable portion of the Republican party is in favor of any such thing. After a careful review of the causes impelling the Republican minority to withdraw from the Legislature we are unwilling to admit that they did wrong, and were the Government to call an extra session official censure of the Republican members would be implied. The Unionist is afraid or unwilling to charge the responsibility where it belongs—we are not. We have the authority of at least one respectable Democratic paper, the Albany Democrat, for charging it to the Democratic party. That paper concedes that the Democrats might have passed an appropriation bill; that it was their fault that one was not passed; that a giant wrong has been committed and that the people of Oregon are the victims of the outrage.

The people of Oregon chose to lie down with the Democratic party—that party as represented in the Legislature have made a very uncomfortable bed for the people—let them lie in it and have a full surfeit of the "blessings of Democratic rule." There are numerous reasons against an extra session of the Legislature. One is that there are questions underlying that of the State finances that are of greater importance. The public safety is to be considered. The action of the Democratic majority in the Legislature and the subsequent enunciations of their 'leader' indicates that they are determined to secure political power in this State at any sacrifice to the public good, and by any means within their reach. The demand of W. W. Chapman that the Speaker of the House issue writs of election, without any warrant whatever in the State Constitution, proves conclusively that they are disposed to adopt extraordinary and unlawful means. One of the Democratic papers in this State has advised the members of its party to purchase firearms—they would be so handy—and the advice naturally suggests a violent disruption of the State government. An extra session of the Legislature would bring together the same men whose folly reduced the financial affairs of the State to their present anomalous condition, and the editor of the Unionist has more confidence in them than we if he expects their further service to result in any good to the State. On the contrary, we seriously believe that the reassembling of the bad elements of the late Legislature would result in far greater evil to the State than will be experienced by running the State government on credit until the next regular session. We hope that Gov. Woods will not call an extra session. We trust that he will allow the official terms of a body of men, remarkable only for pusillanimity of character and governed by political rancor—not by judgment or honesty—to expire without giving them another opportunity to disgrace this State and make its people the laughing stock of the Republic. Let their terms expire we say; the State has no further use for such services as theirs. Let their places be filled at the next election by men of sense and dispassionate judgment, of which there are many in the Democratic party, and the "unerring pen of history" that our Salem cotemporary talks about, will record the fact that Governor Woods acted wisely and well in sparing the State further humiliation at the hands of her notorious "Rump" Legislature.

STATE ITEMS

A few evenings ago the ladies of the United Presbyterian Church at Albany held a festival which was a very successful affair. The proceeds amounted to $248.

It is not known how the small pox originated at Jacksonville. The Sentinel says the question about its origin is an interesting and mysterious one. Another case was reported last Saturday.

The Sentinel says that on Saturday night a fire broke out at Ashland, which destroyed the marble shop, the shoe shop, and office belonging to A. V. Gillette and about 10,000 feet of lumber belonging to Blake & Helman. The loss is estimated at $2 500 to $3 000.

The Roseburg paper learns that Hyman Abrahams, of Canyonville, who suffered the amputation of a leg last summer, is now suffering with the wound extremely—at times being thrown into spasms. A second amputation is thought to be necessary, and surgeons are already summoned for the painful duty.

The Roseburg Ensign is authorized to state that J. D. Bowen, of Douglas county, an old Pioneer in that section, and a life-long Democrat, has renounced his connections with that party, and will hereafter support Republican principles. The Democratic organization seems to be falling to pieces in Douglas county.

Not long ago it was announced here that a new Democratic paper was to be started in Portland. In the following which we copy from the Caucasian, a Democratic paper published at Chico, Cal., the same matter is referred to: "On Tuesday evening we were honored by a visit from Mr. Eugene Semple, Portland, Oregon. He was on his way to San Francisco to purchase material for a first class newspaper, to be established at Portland. Mr. S. is a man of education and a secessionist, the best proof that he is a true Democrat." This endorsement ought to be specific enough.

Criticisms on the Message

In the following paragraph the Chicago Tribune shows the utter fallacy of Johnson's remarks on reconstruction:

He repeats, and even in more offensive terms, his old and now senseless jargon of abuse of the reconstruction policy of Congress, and insists that the immediate repeal of that legislation is demanded in order to rescue the country from the ruin and desolation of which hangs over it. The President's manner of argument is to assert his facts as the necessity of his argument, and not as the truth requires. For instance, he says: "Although the Constitution requires that each State shall be represented in Congress, Virginia, Texas and Mississippi are yet excluded;" and, "contrary to the express provisions of that instrument, were denied participation in the recent election." The Constitution in no place makes it obligatory upon a State to be represented in either House of Congress or in the Electoral College; it creates no power to compel a State to elect Senators, Representatives or electors, and in no way makes the validity of the acts of Congress or of a Presidential electors by all the States. In the exclusion of the three States named from the Electoral College no "express provisions" of the Constitution were violated, because there are none on the subject; but such exclusion had the precedent of 1864, when even Tennessee, of which A. J. was Governor, was excluded by law.

The same paper thus disposes of his dishonest twaddle about the finances:

His review of the finances of the country is painfully childish. It contrasts the population and debt of the Government in 1791 with that of 1816, 1860 and 1868, and calls attention to the fact that, though the population is now so much greater than in 1791, the debt is increased in a greater ratio. The disbursements of 1868 and those of 1791 are contrasted, and he draws conclusions unfavorable to our national existence unless something refunatory be done soon. He makes the announcement that the war of 1812 and the Mexican war did not cost as much as the recent war of the rebellion, and that the latter has left as an annual legacy of expenditure more than equal to the whole expenditures of those previous wars. In his anxiety to picture the distress of the country he makes the statement that "the receipts from the internal revenue and customs have during the past three years diminished, and the continuance of useless and extravagant expenditures will involve us in national bankruptcy." In this Mr. Johnson dishonestly suppresses two facts: 1. That the revenue has been diminished because of the repeal of annual taxation equal to $172 000,000; and 2. That the annual expenditures have been so reduced that even under the greatly diminished taxation, a large portion of the debt has been paid and a surplus left in the Treasury.

A torpedo of extraordinary power has been invented by an Englishman who has received $100 000 for the secret from the Austrian Government. He offers to sell the exclusive right to use the torpedo to his own government for $500 000, or will disclose the secret of its construction for $100 000 to be paid after its merits are approved by a board of engineers.

The Czar is expected to visit Berlin to endeavor to introduce Prussia's military arm and bring about, with England's assistance, a better feeling between France and Prussia.

In Paris, a blind beggar has appeared on the streets with the placard: "Blind—father of a family of five children owing to a great misfortune."

CHARITY.—A large class of people professing to be virtuous, in many occasions forget that to be charitable to a fellow being is the least virtue a person can possess. It is not always by giving money to the poor or assisting the afflicted that a person can only show their charity. A good advice is often better than money. For instance: Meeting a person who wishes to purchase a common or fine suit of clothes or any other article in the Clothing or Dry Goods line, is it not a charitable act toward that person to recommend them to go to Kohn & Fishel, and being certain that at that house they can purchase at the lowest rates and receive good goods, and where the most particular are satisfied?

THE OLD YEAR AND THE NEW.—Old [illegible] will [illegible] 1868 last [illegible] and now the relentless old despot [illegible] the minutes and hours of 1869 [illegible]

To-morrow and to-morrow and to-morrow
Creeps in this petty pace from day to day
To the last syllable of recorded time

We have a thing or two to do with the twelve-month [illegible] With the new year [illegible] what we make it [illegible] full of the happiness with which we greet it [illegible] but the heart [illegible] It is pretty certain to be strewn [illegible] every year that ever [illegible] but that should [illegible] no reason why we should not stand up [illegible] with a youthful hope for all possible [illegible] each other a Happy New Year.

HOW IT WAS DONE.—We [illegible] stated [illegible] that the new editor of the Herald had been [illegible] through the influence of [illegible] This was the way it was done as we are informed. A number of the [illegible] of the West Side Railroad held a meeting at which the proprietor of the Herald was [illegible] there threatened that if Mr Bellinger were continued in the editorial chair they would withdraw their [illegible] and use their influence to break down the paper. Mr Bellinger was a member of the Legislature at [illegible] session and voted to declare the East Side Road [illegible] to the Congressional subsidy and this was the [illegible] of hostility to him. The proprietor of the [illegible] to Mr Bellinger and stated the embarrassment of the position whereupon Mr B promptly relieved [illegible] position to retire which was as promptly [illegible] All this of course is of a personal [illegible] but the parties themselves but it has its [illegible] upon public interests and the interests of [illegible] in the State. It was a successful effort [illegible] the Journal by threats to make it allow [illegible] one of the paramount interests of the State [illegible] what man should not be employed by a private [illegible] In short to put a muzzle upon the press. [illegible] nothing to show that Mr Bellinger would have made the Herald the organ of any railroad at the sacrifice of [illegible] fairness toward all. It was weakness in [illegible] to yield to any such pressure [illegible] came from East side or West side. An independent [illegible] should be independent; should stand just [illegible] speak at any time for either or both or all [illegible] projected and for the general good of the State. [illegible] cannot do this if any corporation is to be allowed to [illegible] terms, in any way. The natural position of a [illegible] at Portland is one of friendliness toward both [illegible] and the West side companies. This is a [illegible] which we would maintain against the dictation of all the corporations in the State. It is a shame [illegible] Portland paper should be forced by threats out of [illegible] position.

[illegible] ITEMS.—We clip the subjoined items from the [illegible] Rev J Flinn is engaged in holding a pro[illegible] Wesley Chapel, some eight miles west [illegible] We learn that up to date it has been a very [illegible] There are twenty-one Auxiliary [illegible] organized in the counties of Oregon and [illegible] Territory, for the purpose of aiding in the [illegible] of the Holy Scriptures. During the past 18 [illegible] about 5,000 Bibles and Testaments have been [illegible] from the parent society for circulation and distribution throughout Oregon and Washington Territory [illegible] Agent for Oregon travels from 600 to 1,500 [illegible] month, and preaches from 15 to 25 times. He [illegible] revival meetings at every point he has visited. [illegible] Yarnell, of this county has donated to the [illegible] Society through Rev I D Driver, more [illegible] thousand acres of valuable land in Missouri and [illegible] also a considerable amount of personal prop[illegible] Wm Chapman, of Tillamook, has been ap[illegible] by the Presiding Elder of Portland District, to [illegible] of Rev J Smith, on the Dayton charge [illegible] was compelled to desist from preaching on [illegible] of his ill health. Bro Turner writes under [illegible] 20th: We are in the midst of a glorious revival at Forest Grove. It is a general out[illegible] of the Holy Spirit. Scores are forward for [illegible] and a number have been blessed. Eight have [illegible] with us on probation and a number more doubtless [illegible] The work still goes on with increased interest.

[illegible] McMINNVILLE.—A correspondent at McMinnville [illegible] that a man named Eckleson, a shoemaker, [illegible] while at the Christmas ball, and walked around [illegible] with his hat on and spitting tobacco juice on [illegible] The ladies complaining of this, one of the managers [illegible] and requested him to desist. Eckleson re[illegible] and spat upon the manager and [illegible] quid at him. The manager then took [illegible] to put him out. Eckleson drew a pocket [illegible] attempting to stab the manager, hit a bystander [illegible] terrible gash in his mouth and face. Eckleson [illegible]

[illegible] FLOWERS OF THE FOREST.—The presentation [illegible] at Oro Fino Theatre, last evening was [illegible] The characters were excellently cast, and [illegible] an exception, were admirably sustained [illegible] Miss Fields, Thayer and Mrs. Robinson, [illegible] frequently and enthusiastically. Not [illegible] the severe storm raging during the evening [illegible] was full and we predict that the excellence of [illegible] will insure another full house to-night, [illegible] play will be repeated.

[illegible] ITEMS.—The Unionist of yesterday says: [illegible] Willamette was on the rise again. The water [illegible] now than it has been before this winter [illegible] private lectures, which have been sus[illegible] the holidays, will be resumed on Tuesday [illegible] We understand that twenty-five or thirty [illegible] start this morning to Portland to attend the [illegible] of the anniversary of the issuing of the Emanci[illegible]

[illegible] MEETING.—The Annual Meeting of the Catholic Christian Doctrine Society of Portland, [illegible] the election of officers for the ensuing year [illegible] receiving of the annual report, will be held at the [illegible] of the Society, on Sunday January 3, 1869, com[illegible] at ten o clock P M. [illegible] FRANCISCO TIMES, under the head of "Terri[illegible] in Portland says: "Our reporter learns [illegible] at the Labor Exchange, that Portland is [illegible] a scarcity of female servants. A letter [illegible] says that 250 women, capable of doing [illegible] work, could find immediate employment [illegible] five twenty five, anyhow."

[illegible] LOST.—We learn that Mr W H. Tidd, of the [illegible] corner of First and Taylor streets started [illegible] on Wednesday morning for the pur[illegible] cattle, having $600 in a sack in his coat [illegible] after getting about six miles out he discovered [illegible] lost the sack from his pocket.

INSTALLATION.—The following is the list of [illegible] of the Silverton Lodge No 45, A F and A M, [illegible] on the evening of the 26th inst: W Donnigan, [illegible] W. H. Lewis, S W; Joseph Chalmers, J W; [illegible] Treasurer; J C Davenport, Secretary; [illegible] Tyler; W W Sanders, S D; A Moser, J D.

[illegible] The officers of Silverton Lodge No 21, I O O F, for the ensuing term are M Fitzgerald, N G; [illegible] Geer, V G; Wm R Dunbar, Recording Sec[illegible] J. W. Davenport, Permanent Secretary; J M [illegible] Ralph C Geer, P G; W Donnegan, [illegible] W W Sanders, Trustees.

A Strange Old Story

The editor of the Pall Mall Gazette publishes the following curious letter:

SIR,—The incident you have quoted as a "singular variation on the Enoch Arden romance," reminds me of an older one to which you will perhaps allow me to call attention as an authentic example of the most moral, manly, English, and constitutional behavior, under such "tolerable and not-to-be borne" circumstances. It is mentioned in Lyson s "Environs" as from an entry in the parish register of Bermondsey, A D 1604:

"The forme of a solemne vowe made betwixt a man and his wife, having bene long absent, through which occasion the woman beinge married to another man [he] tooke her again as followeth:

"THE MAN'S SPEECH: Elizabeth, my beloved wife, I am right sorie that I have so long absented myselfe from thee, whereby thou shouldst be occasioned to take another man to be thy husband. Therefore I do now vowe and promise in the sight of God and this companie, to take thee again as mine owne, and will not only forgive thee but also dwell with thee, and do all other duties unto thee as I promised at our marriage.

"THE WOMAN'S SPEECH: Raphe, my beloved husband, I am right sorie that I have in thy absense taken another man to be my husband, but here, before God and this companie, I do denounce and forsake him, and do promise to kepe myselfe only unto thee duringe life, and to performe all other duties which I first promised unto thee in our marriage."

Then follows a short "occasional prayer," and the entry concludes with the names of the parties and the attestation of the "parson, clark, etc." I regret that I cannot find any "speach" of the other [illegible] to complete this notice, but I hope some [illegible] of his sentiments may yet be discovered by local antiquarians, or that in the opposite case we may indulge in the reasonable conjecture that he gave a cordial consent, by silence, to the termination of his experience of matrimony. I remain sir, yours most obediently,

A BELIEVER IN BACHELOR.

In Cleveland, Ohio, on the 20th of November, between four and five o'clock in the afternoon about a dozen men were at work in a trench twelve feet deep in the middle of a street, constructing a sewer. The lumber branches to support the sides did not reach the bottom of the excavation and the sand commenced falling in below the ends of the planks. Some of the workmen becoming alarmed attempted to swing themselves up by taking hold of the braces. They gave way under their weight and fell with the workmen to the bottom of the ditch. Thus left without support for a distance of forty feet the banks and remaining timbers gave way and fell upon the unfortunate men below. Crowds of people of all classes flocked to the rescue as news of the accident spread and every available shovel was put in requisition to disentomb the victims, whose groanings could plainly be heard beneath the mass of earth. The fall of the earth fractured the gas which issued from a crack several feet in length. As it grew dark a lamp was brought to light the workers, when a grand explosion occurred, severely burning the faces of those standing near by. The gas from the broken pipe then took fire and blazed high in the air, casting a lurid light upon the excited group, notwithstanding all the efforts made to extinguish it. Four men were taken out dead and three terribly injured after being buried for upwards of four hours.

The word fellowship, used as a verb, has of late years been used almost exclusively by clergymen, and is generally supposed to be an Americanism. It has, however, been found in the history of King Arthur, written in 1469, and printed by Caxton in 1485. It is in fact good old English.

Alexander H. Stephens is a candidate to be Professor of Belles Lettres in Georgia University, if elected, which he is likely to be.

[illegible] the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here and in the markets of the interior a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. ## FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

WEEKLY REVIEW

PORTLAND Jan 1, 1869

New York quotations of gold, 134¾.

Legal tenders at San Francisco, 74@74½. Current in this market at 73@74

New York—Flour has still further declined to $6 50@11 75. Wheat, $2 15@2 20.

Liverpool—[illegible] wheat market still [illegible] going down, last quotations being 11s 9d.

San Francisco—Flour market dull and prices nominal for [illegible] extra, $5 50@5 75. Wheat—quoted at $1 65@1 65 for coast, $1 70@1 75 for fair to good shipping, $1 80@1 82½ for good to choice shipping. Barley—coast feed $2 [illegible]@2 25, brewing, $2 30@2 35. Oats—300 sacks Cala. [illegible] 2 20, 200 sacks [illegible] 2 25.

Portland—Flour [illegible] full at last figures. A reduction of quotations seems inevitable. Considerable shipments have recently been made to California and an increased demand is being supplied to the Victoria market, [illegible] the figures [illegible] have been in most instances below the quotations in the reports. Produce generally is very quiet [illegible] a little [illegible] of any immediate improvement.

The general rain fall in California has produced a change in the aspect of the wheat market [illegible] with the lower [illegible] that [illegible] from Liverpool and New York. The prices are not materially less but the turn of the market is against the seller. [illegible] small amount of exports [illegible] the stock [illegible] as is usually the case at this season. [illegible] vessels that are leaving [illegible] their freights and [illegible] against the interests of the farmers and the State very much. There is a good deal of grain to be sold and [illegible] the ships now seeking [illegible] filled with wheat and the rich products of [illegible] State find remunerative sale. Half the crop [illegible] few vessels loading grain, consequently [illegible] stock [illegible] larger [illegible] good harvest [illegible] no improvement is shown during the past week [illegible] of Central America and limited [illegible] received from Honolulu. The next [illegible] will take a small shipment. One vessel [illegible] for the purpose of [illegible] which we report. Aside from this there is absolutely nothing doing in the way of exports. New York shippers are not in the market and the last New York steamer took not a single [illegible]

[illegible] has been very quiet [illegible] generally unchanged. Dry goods—[illegible] stock [illegible] our quotations, but all new [illegible] and [illegible] tendency to advance still further.

By common consent the OREGONIAN ranks first among the papers published in the Northwest. As a journal of enterprise in gathering the latest intelligence, and in giving in each issue a larger amount and greater variety of reading matter it has no competitor. It is thoroughly identified with this city and State and neighboring Territories where the number of its readers and its influence are constantly increasing.

An unflinching advocate of sound Union principles, it at the same time pays special attention not only to MATTERS OF GENERAL INTEREST but to every thing of moment to the great
